

GREEK INDEPENDENCE DAY

SPEECH OF

HON. MARK STEVEN KIRK

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, March 25, 2004

Mr. KIRK. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize 183 years of the Greek people's freedom and independence, and their noble revolution from the Ottoman Empire in March of 1821. As Greeks and Greek-Americans celebrate Greek Independence Day, I join them and my colleagues in recognizing this great nation.

Nearly 400 years ago, the Greek people embarked on a powerful revolution against the Ottoman oppressors. The ancient Greeks forged a mighty wave of democracy and freedom following the fall of Constantinople, culminating with Bishop Germanos of Patras raising the Greek flag at Agia Lavras.

Today, 183 years after Greece's successful and bold revolution, she continues to prove herself a loyal ally of the United States, while standing firm in her advocacy of democracy and freedom. Greece is one of only three nations in the world beyond those of the former British Empire to be allied with the United States in every major conflict of the 20th Century. The United States is fortunate to have such a longstanding and reliable ally.

As we continue to eradicate the global threat of terror, Greece again stands firm with the United States. Our efforts in the war against terror would not be as successful without the continued assistance from our allies in Greece.

I join my colleagues in saluting and thanking the Greek people on this 183rd year of freedom and independence. To Greece, our free and democratic ally: "Cronia polla hellas".

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. ROB PORTMAN

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 30, 2004

Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. Speaker, on March 29, 2004, I was in my congressional district due to a death in my family. I missed the recorded votes on rollcall No. 94, to suspend the rules and pass H.R. 2584, the Utrok Atoll Conveyance; rollcall No. 95, to suspend the rules and pass H.R. 3723, the Vaughn Gross Post Office Building. Had I been present, I would have voted "yea" on rollcall No. 94 and "yea" on rollcall No. 95.

RECOGNIZING THE 75TH ANNIVERSARY OF LANSING CIVIC PLAYERS

HON. MIKE ROGERS

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 30, 2004

Mr. ROGERS of Michigan. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the anniversary of the Lansing Civic Players, a community theater in Lansing, Michigan, as 2004 marks their 75th year of continuous operation.

After three-quarters of a century enduring trials and tribulations, the Lansing Civic Players still continues to achieve the goal they set out for: To provide the people in the Lansing area with good community theatre.

In the fall of 1929, two amateur theater productions were established in the Lansing area: The Players Guild, started by Elva Schell and the Civic Theatre, created by August Fischer. In October 1929, the two groups decided to join resources, and the Lansing Civic Players Guild was born.

The first years were a struggle for the group. The members of the Lansing Civic Players Guild performed all necessary functions. They were the actors, the ticket salesmen, and the set builders. They did it all. They had very little money, but they had a determination to bring quality theater to the Lansing area. The group began work on their first play, "The Trial of Mary Duggan." It was at this time the royalties for the show were pulled, and the Lansing Civic Players Guild was left without a play. But as they say in show business, the show must go on. The group rushed to find a new production, and on May 24, 1930, they performed "Captain AppleJack." This performance had over 1,000 people in attendance, including the Governor of the State of Michigan, and is still a record setting attendance to this day for the theater.

Today, the group operates their business, the building, rehearsals, and costume shop out of a fire hall which they acquired in June, 1977. The Lansing Civic Players have performed at three area high schools since inception, and currently perform at the Hannah Community Center. They have received awards for longevity from the Community Theater Association of Michigan as well as the Lansing City Council.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in recognizing the 75th anniversary of the Lansing Civic Players and the impact they have made on mid-Michigan.

COMMENDING SAS INSTITUTE OF CARY, NC, FOR THEIR CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE WORLD OF TECHNOLOGY

HON. ROBIN HAYES

OF NORTH CAROLINA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 30, 2004

Mr. HAYES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to recognize a milestone for SAS Institute, a home-grown North Carolina software company with roots in our State's fine university system. Since 1976, SAS has been a leading employer, both in our state and around the world, as exhibited by its ranking in Fortune magazine's annual "100 Best Companies to Work For" list year after year. And SAS' $1.34 billion in revenues make it the world's largest privately held software company and the leading business intelligence software company. Today, SAS announces the release of SAS®9, its most advanced business intelligence software ever. SAS®9 helps businesses and organizations worldwide turn raw data into better, faster and more accurate business decisions. Congratulations to SAS, a great North Carolina company that serves the world.

HON. ELTON GALLEGLY

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 30, 2004

Mr. GALLEGLY. Mr. Speaker, on Monday, March 29, 2004, I was unable to vote on H.R. 2584, to provide for the conveyance to the Utrok Atoll local government of a decommissioned National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration ship (rollcall 94) and H.R. 3723, the Vaughn Gross Post Office Building Designation Act (rollcall 95). Had I been present, I would have voted "yes" on both measures.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

HON. GENE TAYLOR

OF MISSISSIPPI

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 30, 2004

Mr. TAYLOR of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, yesterday, on March 29, 2004, I was unavoidably detained because my departure flight from my congressional district was delayed as a result of mechanical problems. This situation resulted in my having missed rollcall votes 94 and 95. Had I been present, I would have voted "yea" on rollcall vote No. 94 and "yea" on rollcall vote No. 95.

TRIBUTE TO RAY MEYER

HON. SCOTT MCINNIS

OF COLORADO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 30, 2004

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, it is a privilege to rise today to pay tribute to Ray Meyer for his selfless dedication to his Delta, Colorado community, and congratulate him on being recognized by the Delta Chamber of Commerce as their Citizen of the Year. A lifelong resident of Delta and a member of the Delta City Council, Ray has involved himself with numerous civic organizations. This award is a well-deserved testament to his ongoing efforts to better his community.

Born in Delta and raised in his father's grocery store, Ray has always been an active member in the community. The time Ray spent away from Delta was just as active, attending college at the University of Denver and serving our country in the Navy during World War II. Once he came home from defending our country in the Asian-Pacific Theatre, Ray joined his father's grocery business. In 1958, he became manager of Delta Savings and Loan, and served as CEO and chairman until his retirement in 1985.

Ray has served his Delta community as a member of the city council for 14 years, sitting as chairman and on numerous committees, including region 10. He is also an active member at St. Michael's Catholic Church, a member and past president of the Lions Club, and a former president of the Rotary Club and Delta chamber. He serves on the library board and the public arts committee, and is a member of the Community Concert Association.

Mr. Speaker, it is my privilege to recognize Ray Meyer before this body of Congress and
